An Ecosystem Approach to Sustainable Agriculture Jul 06 2020 Modern industrial agriculture is not sustainable because of its heavy reliance on petroleum, a non-renewable source of the energy used in farming, and because of pollution caused by petroleum products such as fertilizers and pesticides. A systems analysis of farming suggests that agriculture will be more sustainable when services of nature, such as nutrient recycling by soil micro-organisms and natural controls of insects, replace the services now provided by energy from petroleum. Examples are drawn from the Southeastern USA, but lessons learned can be applied worldwide.

Comparison of different feature sets and classifiers for emotion recognition of speech Oct 21 2021 Bachelor Thesis from the year 2014 in the subject Electrotechnology, grade: 1,0, University of Stuttgart (Institut für Signalverarbeitung und Systemtheorie), course: Elektrotechnik und Informationstechnik, language: English, abstract: This thesis deals with emotion recognition from speech signals using several feature sets and classifiers. Feature sets with different sizes are compared: the feature set of the Institute for Signal Processing and System Theory as well as standardised feature sets of eight paralinguistic challenges. The question is whether there is a connection between the size of a feature set and the performance. The feature sets are investigated with SFFS and without in combination with Naive Bayes classifier, k-Nearest-Neighbour classifier and Support Vector Machine. The goal of this thesis is to find those features which are selected most commonly for good performance. Diese Arbeit befasst sich mit der Erkennung von Emotionen aus Sprachsignalen. Es werden verschiedene Merkmalsätze und Klassifizierer auf ihre Leistungsfähigkeit getestet. Dabei werden Merkmalsätze mit unterschiedlichen Größen verglichen: der Merkmalsatz vom Institut für Signalverarbeitung und Systemtheorie sowie standardisierte Merkmalsätze von acht Wettbewerben, in denen paralinguistische Informationen erkannt werden sollten. Die Frage ist, ob es einen Zusammenhang zwischen der Größe eines Merkmalsatzes und der Leistungsfähigkeit gibt. Die Merkmalsätze werden sowie mit auch als ohne Merkmalsauswahl (SFFS) in Kombination mit dem Naiven Bayes Klassifizierer, k-Nächste-Nachbarn Klassifizierer und einer Support Vector Maschine untersucht. Das Ziel dieser Arbeit ist, die Merkmale zu finden, die bei den besten Merkmalsätzen am häufigsten ausgewählt wurden.

Computational Intelligence in Remanufacturing Apr 02 2020 In attempts to reduce greenhouse gas emissions, many alternatives to manufacturing have been recommended from a number of international organizations. Although challenges will arise, remanufacturing has the ability to transform ecological and business value. Computational Intelligence in Remanufacturing introduces various computational intelligence techniques that are applied to remanufacturing-related issues, results, and lessons from specific applications while highlighting future development and research. This book is an essential reference for students, researchers, and practitioners in mechanical, industrial, and electrical engineering. Performance Comparison of European Exchange Traded Funds (ETF) and Index Mutual Funds Mar 02 2020 Seminar paper from the year 2013 in the subject Business economics - Banking, Stock Exchanges, Insurance, Accounting, grade: 1, University of Innsbruck, course: Risikomanagement, language: English, abstract: Nowadays exchange traded funds (ETFs) are getting more and more popular. Many investors believe that their risk-performance profile is better than ordinary index mutual funds. This seminar paper focuses on the real returns of both asset classes. It is based on a scientific paper written by Sharifzadeh et al.(2012). The authors compared ETFs and index mutual funds which had quite the same composition. Additionally, they tested the risk-return profile of both, using the sharpe ratio. Interestingly, they found out that ETFs could not outperform index mutual funds and vice versa.

The rising market for Western apparel enterprises in China Sep 07 2020 Bachelor Thesis from the year 2013 in the subject Business economics - Miscellaneous, grade: 1,2, University of Applied Sciences Bremen, language: English, abstract: According to the Boston Consulting Group report of 2011, the Chinese apparel sector is set to become the world's second largest retail market by 2020 and will account for about 30 percent of the global apparel market's growth over the next five years. Until recent years, China has been regarded as one of the main manufacture places of western apparel companies because of its lower labor costs. Nowadays, however hand in hand with the rapidly changing economic and social situation, China has shown the world that it is also a promising consumer market. Especially, apparel retail sales have increased tremendously and therefore offer huge opportunities. Many Western clothing retailers are increasingly viewing China as a huge potential market, because of its rising middle and affluent class and Chinese consumers' increasing call for western apparel products. Western products are related with factors such as quality, modernity or also care for the environment. Furthermore, many of the global brands have less market presence in China than in other operating countries. For example, the fast fashion brand Zara only has got 92 stores, H&M had roughly 78 stores at the end of 2011, which is still very few in comparison to the number of stores these companies own in other markets. The US fashion chain Forever 21 has just entered the Chinese market at the end of 2011. Companies who win this market in the next few years will definitely top the global apparel market. However, even though the potential is huge, winning this market will not be easy. To succeed, western brands need to adapt their strategies to Chinese consumers' tastes and expectations; this includes the development of brand and company image and product tailoring to the Chinese consumer market. Any company that conducts business in China without effective methods risks a quick exit. This study has two major purposes: the first is to demonstrate why China is the future sales market for Western apparel companies and the second one to make recommendations for Western apparel companies that want to win the Chinese market. Research questions Main questions 1. What are the main factors of China's economic attractiveness? 2. What could be an effective path to take when entering the Chinese market and which strategies do western apparel companies need to capture China's dynamic market? Further questions 1. How could the future of the Chinese retail market look like? 2. Which are the barriers and from the year 2013 in the subject Nutritional Science, grade: Good, Hawassa University (Institute of Nutrition, Food Science and Technology), language: English, abstract: World Vision Ethiopia had implemented a two years Essential Nutrition Promotion (ENP) Project, using the Positive Deviance/Hearth (PD Hearth) approach, in two Kebeles of Jeju District from June 2007 to September 2009. The PD Hearth approach identifies those behaviors practiced by the mothers or caretakers of well-nourished children from poor families and transfers such positive practices to others in the community with malnourished children. The study investigated whether there are improvements sustained three years after the program was terminated. A Cross-sectional survey was administered to a total of 249 children, 123 of them randomly selected from two Kebeles that had previously participated in the program and 126 children from a neighboring comparison two Kebeles. All the sample children 6-59 months of age were measured, and mothers of children under 24 months interviewed. The children born after the completion of the program in the intervention area were significantly better nourished than those in the comparison area, with adjusted mean weight-for-age Z scores of -0.963 versus -1.308 (p

What is Really "On-Time"? A Comparison of Due Date Performance Indicators in Production Oct 09 2020 Bachelor Thesis from the year 2016 in the subject Business economics - Supply, Production, Logistics, grade: 1.0, Jacobs University Bremen gGmbH (Production & Logistics Networks), language: English, abstract: On-time delivery is essential in today's dynamic conditions: if a company cannot produce and deliver on time, it has to make up for it by using high cost express delivery or faces customer dissatisfaction. One factor influencing the delivery reliability is the due date performance (DDP) within production. Although the significance of DDP has been established, the question of how to measure it remains. A review of existing literature shows the vast amount of different DDP measures (lateness, relative lateness, tardiness, schedule reliability, etc.). The purpose of this paper is to compare different DDP measures used in manufacturing in order to assess their interrelationship, so that companies are better able to understand the impact of their choice of measure. A review of DDP measures described in literature is performed, followed by statistical analysis of the relations between those measures computed on production feedback data from four real-world manufacturers. The results indicate that there exist differences across DDP measure groups. Further research is needed to assess the benefits of each measure in a given situation.

Transformation Index BTI 2012 Dec 23 2021 The peaceful transition of authoritarian regimes towards democracy and a market economy poses enormous challenges for citizens and politicians alike. Around the world, under widely differing conditions and with varying degrees of success, reform-oriented groups are struggling to democratize their countries and to strengthen the market economy. Good governance is the decisive factor for the success or failure of any transition process. The BTI 2012 is the fifth edition of the Bertelsmann Stiftung's Transformation Index which is published every two years. The global ranking measures and compares transition processes worldwide on the basis of detailed country reports. Comparing systematically the status of democracy and market economy on an international basis, the BTI also provides comprehensive data on the quality of political management in 128 transition and developing countries from 2009 to 2011.

The Horsepower of Car Reviews Apr 14 2021 Bachelor Thesis from the year 2015 in the subject Business economics - Marketing, Corporate Communication, CRM, Market Research, Social Media, grade: 1st, De Montfort University Leicester, course: Marketing Management, language: English, abstract: Technological advancements such as the introduction of Web 2.0 has led to changes in consumer shopping behaviour; this has empowered consumers, where brand communication with consumers is no longer one way. Consumers have mass amounts of information valuable for decision-making easily accessible, and are continually incorporating the use of reviews into their decision-making processes, especially with high involvement purchases. With car purchases arguably one of the most expensive purchases made in a consumer's lifetime; a focus on this purchase decision-making process has been taken. Subsequent to secondary data analysis and literature evaluation, a research problem was identified and objectives were devised. The research problem was to determine the effects and uses of car reviews to consumers. Objectives consisted of investigating: whether potential buyers use car reviews; what stage of the buyer decision-making process are car reviews most influential; what type of car reviews are used; and which type of car review is most trusted. With the consideration of the research problem and objectives, methodology was constructed. An appropriate sampling method and frame was chosen given the current resources and time-scale available. In-depth interviews were used as a data collection method to gain insight into consumer use of car reviews. Moreover online questionnaires were used to gain numerical data to enable statistical analysis and conclusions. Primary data analysis and evaluation was carried out with the consideration of academic theories and frameworks to enhance conclusions and findings. It was revealed that the majority of consumers do make use of car reviews during a car purchase process; with consumers having a preference to the use of Autotrader, Top Gear or have no preference between car review sources. Car reviews were more influential in pre-purchase stages; where it was found equally as influential in the information search stage as the evaluation of alternatives stage. Personal/consumer car reviews were used and trusted the most, independent car review companies' reviews were 2nd most used and trusted, and car companies were the least used and trusted. It was found that personal car reviews were the most influential to consumers.

Ken Follett and the Triumph of Suspense May 04 2020 Ken Follett wrote his first international bestseller, Eye of the Needle, when he was 25 years old. He has since been one of the most consistent international best-selling authors, with approximately 130 million copies of his books sold worldwide. His manifold influences on the thriller genre includes the pioneering use of strong female characters in espionage stories and the development of the historical thriller as a new form of novel, exemplified by Winter of the World (2012). This book is an investigation of Follett's development as an author, and of the craft of writing and the negotiation of serious versus popular literary value, from his earliest short stories and screenplays through his mature thrillers and entertainment fiction. Unpublished materials are also considered, including his notes, business and personal correspondence, unpublished drafts, journal entries and outlines. Follett's dramatic shift to writing historical fiction may be his most enduring legacy.

The U.S. Technology Skills Gap Mar 26 2022 Is a widening "skills gap" in science and math education threatening America's future? That is the seminal question addressed in The U.S. Technology Skills Gap, a comprehensive 104-year review of math and science education in America. Some claim this "skills gap" is "equivalent to a permanent national recession" while others cite how the gap threatens America's future economic, workforce employability and national security. This much is sure: America's math and science skills gap is, or should be, an issue of concern for every business and information technology executive in the United States and The U.S. Technology Skills Gap is the how-to-get involved guidebook for those executives laying out in a compelling chronologic format: The history of the science and math skills gap in America Explanation of why decades of astute warnings were ignored Inspiring examples of private company efforts to supplement public education A pragmatic 10-step action plan designed to solve the problem And a tantalizing theory of an obscure Japanese physicist that suggests America's days as the global scientific leader are numbered Engaging and indispensable, The U.S. Technology Skills Gap is essential reading for those eager to see America remain a relevant global power in innovation and invention in the years ahead.

Ideological Language in Newspapers. A Comparison of Presentations of the Petraeus-Case Jan 24 2022 Essay from the year 2012 in the subject English Language and Literature Studies - Other, grade: 1,7, Free University of Berlin (Institut für Anglistik), course: Sprachpraxis, language: English, abstract: Newspaper headings like "David Petraeus: run to ground" and "For Petraeus, echoes of other warrior David" raise the question: Why are there different ways to report on the same event? Both headlines emphasize different aspects by giving more or less importance to particular words. These differences in reporting on the same issue reflect on distinct ideologies various newspapers represent. How is ideology expressed through language? The French philosopher and social theorist Michel Foucault considers language as 'discourse', which implicates that language is always something mediated, it is a discursive practice. Language which is used to express knowledge and to mediate information is always determined by the ideology of the authority using it. In order to capture the predominance of ideology in newspapers being expressed through language and content aspects, four articles from different newspapers dealing with the resignation of the former CIA Director David Petraeus on November 9, based on an extramarital affair with his biographer, will be compared.

Theatre's Leiter Side, 2012-2013 Mar 14 2021 This book is the first in a planned series anthologizing, year by year, the New York theatre reviews of Samuel L. Leiter. After a long, prolific career as an academic, he began reviewing in his early 70s, midway through the 2012-2013 theatre season, after he became a nominator for the Drama Desk Awards. This book not only collects his nearly 150 reviews for the latter half of that season, some very brief, some extended, but provides a personal memoir of how he became a nominator, an overview of his experiences with the Drama Desk, and the troubles and triumphs of becoming a septuagenarian critic seeing hundreds of plays each year. The book also contains photos of the programs for the many plays he attended during the year covered. Later volumes will contain an even greater abundance of his reviews.

Fossil Insects Jun 04 2020 Palaeontomology represents the interface between two huge scientific disciplines: palaeontology – the study of fossils, and entomology – the study of insects. However, fossils rarely feature extensively in books on insects, and likewise, insects rarely feature in books about fossils. Similarly, college or university palaeontology courses rarely have an entomological component and entomology courses do not usually consider the fossil record of insects in any detail. This is not due to a lack of insect fossils. The fossil record of insects is incredibly diverse in terms of taxonomic scope, age range (Devonian to Recent), mode of preservation (amber and rock) and geographical distribution (fossil insects have been recorded from all continents, including Antarctica). In this book the authors aim to help bridge the palaeontology–entomology gap by providing a broadly accessible introduction to some of the best preserved fossil insects from a wide range of deposits from around the globe, many of which are beautifully illustrated by colour photographs. Also covered are insect behaviour and ecology in the fossil record, sub-fossil insects, trace fossils and insect species longevity. Just as insects are useful as ecological indicators today, the same can be expected to be true of the past. Such applications of the insect fossil record are briefly discussed. It is hoped that this book will encourage a few future researchers to enter the fascinating realm of palaeontomology and to this end there is a section on how to become a palaeontomologist. However, it is aimed at a much broader audience – those with an interest in fossils and/or insects in general, who will no doubt marvel at the diversity and excellent preservation of the fossils illustrated.
